Jury convicts man in standoff, shootout

Roark faces 46 years prison

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A Madison man who fired shots at law enforcement officers — seriously wounding an Indiana State Police SWAT Officer — has been found guilty on all charges in a jury trial that concluded Thursday in Jefferson Circuit Court.

Wade D. Roark, 61, was convicted on all counts, including Attempted Murder, a Level 1 felony; Aggravated Battery, a Level 3 felony; and Battery and Criminal Recklessness, both Level 5 felonies.

He is facing up to 46 years in the Indiana Department of Correction when he is sentenced at a hearing scheduled for 2:30 p.m. on Nov.29.

Wade D. Roark

In the incident that occurred in November 2019, Indiana State Police Officer Joseph Livers, a member of the ISP special response team, was wounded in the left leg with the bullet lodging in his right knee during a standoff with Roark at a residence juts off State Road 56 near the Jefferson-Switzerland county line. Medical professionals said the bullet narrowly missed striking Livers' artery and he underwent surgery and still suffers from pain and infection from the injury.

"We are pleased with the outcome at the conclusion of this trial and that justice was served for Trooper Joseph Livers and his family," Jefferson County Prosecutor David R. Sutter said. "As always, we commend our law enforcement professionals, like Trooper Livers, who put their lives at risk for the safety and security of others on a daily basis."

The incident began in the early morning hours of Nov. 23, 2019, when police were alerted that Roark's family members were locked in an upstairs bedroom at 8273 East State Road 56 with a shooter, identified as

Crosswalks get fresh paint

Bob Demaree

Workers for Traffic Control Specialists use a template to paint a crosswalk at Broadway and Main streets as part of a Main Street rejuvenation project. The process involves spraying paint over reflective material for higher visibility and endurance. Painting crosswalks is the final phase of the Main Street portion of the overall $1 million project from Jefferson Street to the top of Hanover hill. Yet to be done is crack filling from Crooked Creek Bridge to State Road 62.

HDBR looking for way to correct sign mistake

Faulty math led to incorrect approval

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Madison's Historic District Board of Review (HDBR) will look for a way to correct an error on the part of the City's Office of Historic Preservation over an application that was approved allowing a new business to design, construct and install signage that is more than twice the size allowed by ordinance.

The lighted red, black and white sign, located at the Mad Love restaurant, 709 West Main Street, features "MADLOVE" in large vertical block letters with "eat + drink" in smaller horizontal letters. Soon after owners Jeff and Kim Kennard had the sign installed on the front of their building by Heitz Sign Company of Madison, some neighbors and other business owners cried foul over its size and design.

The city's Historic District ordinance, adopted in 1981, limits the size of signs — even the size of letters on signs — as well as the ways they can be lighted. Kevin Carlson, a local sign designer and painter, showed up at Monday's Historic District Board of Review meeting to ask who allowed the Mad Love sign and find out why.

Brooke Peach, the city's historic preservationist who has been on the job since earlier this year, immediately apologized and confirmed that the sign was granted a Certificate of Appropriateness based on a mathematical error on her part. She said she used faulty math while calculating the size of the sign, allowing it to be approved contrary to city guidelines. The corrected math shows that the sign is actually about 31 square feet, which is more than double what the city allows.

Carlson said he understands that mathematical mistakes can happen, but as a sign painter who has worked within the city's ordinance for more than 30 years, he or any other local sign painter would have — and should have — known that the design violated the city ordinance in a number of ways.

"The company that did this sign has been in business twice as long as I have," Carlson said. "I would have known and they should have known."

Carlson went on to say that considering the close scrutiny many of his signs have faced over the years, allowing the Mad Love sign to stay "feels like I've been slighted ... I'm just a little peeved at this whole situation."

Julie Truax, a local resident and former owner of The Attic, a nearby coffee shop, diner and gift shop, said she is "excited about the new restaurant and looks forward to eating there" but the size and design of the sign are "inappropriate" for a historic area where businesses, residences and a school share a section of Main Street.

Animal shelter board votes on interim director

BY BOB DEMAREE

The Jefferson County Animal Shelter Advisory Board met Wednesday night and voted to recommend the hiring of an interim director for the county's animal shelter.

Lindsay Stultz-Weyer, the current Animal Control Officer for Switzerland County, was the unanimous choice of the board at Wednesday's special meeting.

A search for an interim director began after the current director, Jenny Slover, went on medical leave in September, and the board determined that new management was needed at the animal shelter. The board advertised for applicants, narrowed the list of candidates to finalists who were then interviewed before Stultz-Weyer was voted for recommendation.

Carroll COVID-19 death toll now 27

BY BOB DEMAREE

Another death related to COVID-19 was reported in Carroll County — driving the death toll there to 27 — on the day Kentucky Gov. Andy Beshear was trying to persuade Kentuckians to get the vaccination booster shot.

"Boosters are now the most critical thing, aside from getting more people vaccinated," said Beshear. "It will keep your immunity further up, and it will help us defeat COVID once and for all."

Meanwhile, in Indiana, preparations are underway to expand Pfizer's COVID-19 vaccine to children ages 5 to 11 if the federal government gives approval.

The Indiana Department of Health's chief medical officer Dr. Lindsay Weaver said the state expects to receive 200,000 additional COVID vaccines intended

Destructive drinking drives a wedge

ANNIE
LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: About eight years ago, my wife and I moved to Butte, Montana, so she could take a supervisor position for her work. It was a better job for her, and I reluctantly agreed to move, though it pretty much shut me down in my work and outside life where we were.

We both have drunk over the years, but as I got older and developed medical issues, I pretty much stopped, both at home or out and about around town. My wife has gone the other way and uses drinking as a way to cope with work and life in general.

Her drinking has become a daily thing, and now most of it is hidden and done in private. Sure, she opens a bottle of wine at home in front of me, but she drinks the whole bottle or more. I don't say a thing anymore because it's just caused arguments.

The majority of the drinking is done with liquor or wine hidden in her tote bag, her clothes bin, or stashed in her vehicle. I've found wine cartons, empty bottles and beer cans in various places around the house. She drinks on her way home from work and walks in the house already lit up, which creates different moods and personalities. She keeps her tote bag in her dressing room and, throughout the evening, drinks whatever she has hidden.

She even drinks at work, going out at lunch, getting something and drinking through the afternoon, coming home already drunk. She pretends everything is normal, but I know better.

Through advice from Alcoholics Anonymous counseling, I've been documenting and photographing each day's drinking. Doing that has helped me cope with her daily drunkenness, but it's just getting old now.

Although I've told my wife several times that I know what she's doing, she keeps it up. Our relationship has drifted apart because I become judgmental or don't want to listen to her when I know she's drunk.

I've asked her to stop — or just stop the hard liquor — many times, but she keeps on. I've written letters to her stating my concern for her health and our relationship, and she says she'll stop but never does.

She finds ways to blame me, and uses me in some way as an excuse or reason for it, but they all prove foolish. I obviously love and support her, but the years are going by, and my life and health are starting to suffer. Our life together is suffering, and I don't know what to do.

I've gotten advice from ALANON counseling, and it doesn't look good. What can you say and advise me on? — Alcohol Creating Distance

Dear Alcohol: Consider speaking with her in the presence of a counselor, where you can express your feelings in a safe, sober space outside the home.

Another option is to stage a small intervention with only close friends and family in attendance. You're likely not the only one who misses the woman your wife used to be and wants to see her get the help she needs.

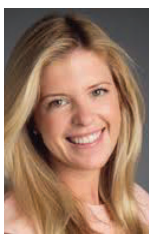
Ex-boyfriend claims he has changed



ANNIE

DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I have an ex-boyfriend, and our relationship has been off and on for more than eight years. He has a drug addiction problem, though he is clean for now. During those eight years, he cheated on me all the time.

He is now telling me that he has changed his life and wants me back, which is a pattern for him every time he breaks up with someone. I have taken him back before, and every time, he wants money from me. He also has me constantly doing things for him.

He makes me feel as if it is my fault if something happens to him if I refuse to take him back — that he will start doing drugs again or something else that is harmful to him. I don't like feeling this way.

My question is, is eight years too long to start over? Can someone change their ways? I was raised to listen to my gut. And my gut is telling me that nothing has changed. — Torn

Dear Torn: Always listen to your gut — and your entire body. A lot of times, our body knows something is not right before our mind figures out why. This guy sounds like a loser who thrives on taking advantage of your feelings of guilt, which he creates.

Say no to him, and explain that if, over a long period of time — at least a year or two — he stays clean and sober and still wants you back, you will reconsider. But if he harms himself in the meanwhile, that's his problem, not yours.

Dear Annie: I am a 54-year-old man who has been a teacher for over 20 years. I'm a confident and intelligent person who graduated with honors from a very good university. I am married with two children, and I'm a veteran of the U.S. Army.

My problem is that there are two people in my life, my boss and my wife, who speak to me like I'm a complete idiot. Much of what I say to my boss and my wife is contradicted, corrected or outright disagreed with. It's gotten to the point that I don't even feel like talking to them anymore.

I have begun to predict what they'll call me out on, and I'm almost always right. The thing is I'm not as wrong as they would have me believe. Their point of view is just different from mine.

I'm tired of trying to talk to them, and I hate that feeling. When I do stand up for myself, I'm suddenly an overreacting jerk who they are shocked and appalled at. This has been a problem all my adult life, from other ex-bosses and ex-girlfriends to former co-workers.

My current co-workers and my few friends have noticed it, too, and can't understand why they treat me this way. I don't understand it either. Any suggestions? — Confused and Frustrated

Dear Confused and Frustrated: Either you are a wonderful human being who is surrounded by unhappy people or you are interpreting someone having a different opinion as he or she treating you like an idiot. If you really feel that you are being bullied, then the next time your wife or boss makes you feel stupid, ignore them. If they see that they get a reaction from you, they might keep doing what they are doing. Bullies feed on seeing their victims affected by their actions.

Marriage counseling would be a wonderful place for you and your wife to figure out whether she is taking you for granted and mocking you, or if you are feeling like an idiot because she has a different opinion.

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

David Campbell

Madison Consolidated High School graduate Karrington True, now the director of soccer operations for the University of Kentucky women's soccer team, walks on the field during warm-ups before the Wildcats' match with Missouri on Sunday.

Sitting in a hotel room in Chicago for what seemed like the hundredth time, Karrington True and her father Matt were looking for something to do. Rather than go to a movie or window shop, Matt suggested going to see that night's Chicago Fire Major League Soccer game.

As it turned out, that one decision was a life-changing moment for teenaged Karrington. Never a big soccer fan, she was immediately smitten and was determined to make the sport her career.

"I remember my dad spending hundreds of dollars on these amazing midfield seats and I see this section of people on the goal line and there's drums and trumpets and flags and they're dancing and singing and having an absolute ball of a time, and I remember I looked at my dad and I was like we're in the wrong section," Karrington recalls. "So we moved over and come to find out those are like the $15 seats and I fell in love with it. I fell in love with the people, the style of play and the atmosphere."

Fast-forward nearly 10 years and Karrington has made good on her decision to make the sport a career. A 2016 graduate of Madison Consolidated High School and a Milton, Kentucky resident, Karrington has just wrapped her fifth season as Director of Soccer Operations for the University of Kentucky women's soccer program.

As the operations manager of the Wildcats, Karrington is responsible for virtually everything other than calling plays and doing training. Her biggest responsibility is all the travel plans, from hotels to charter flights, to all the games, but she's also in charge of making sure the team gets fed and that players get where they need to go. She's the program's compliance officer and serves as camp administrator.

"I affectionately say that I am a soccer mom on steroids," Karrington said with a laugh.

The number of duties is even more impressive when you consider that she is still a full-time student at UK. She earned her bachelor's degrees in both business administration and integrated strategic communication in 2020 and will receive her master's in sports leadership in the spring. In between games, practices, trips and meetings, she still has classes and homework.

But it's a schedule Karrington is used to. As a brand-new freshman on campus, Karrington walked into the Kentucky women's soccer offices to ask for a job. She was expecting equipment manager or receptionist, but walked out with one of the most important jobs on the staff.

"I reached out to both teams and I knew the worst that would happen was that I was going to get told no. I really had the approach that I would be willing to do anything, if that's matching socks or filling water bottles. I wanted to be here. I wanted to learn as much as I could," she said. "I hit the timing correct. There was a coaching change and the staff that we had at the time was willing to take the risk and they believed in me and my plans that I had for myself.

David Campbell

Director of soccer operations Karrington True (left) sits next to assistant coach Jim Chapman on the bench during Kentucky's win over Missouri in women's college soccer on Sunday.

"And so we all just kind of grew up together as a staff and then they really just took that risk, but I knew that if I didn't work my tail off and didn't prove myself that that opportunity could be taken," she added. "So I really, really worked hard over the past five years to prove that I was worth the risk."

Still the only undergrad to hold the position of director of soccer operations in the Southeastern Conference, Karrington walked into the job blind and has learned along the way.

"I was a freshman and had never booked a hotel room completely on my own. I was told to plan an entire season worth of travel in just a couple months and good luck," Karrington laughed. "So I remember calling hotels as kind of a meek, 19-year old, then grew into the role and started to get my footing. So it's been a growing venture."

There of course have been horror stories along the way. During her first year, she planned for a flight to take longer than it should have on a trip to Alabama and the team was stuck on the tarmac for over an hour waiting for the bus. She was at a UK football game with her parents when she got that call.

"I had a very, very angry phone call and I immediately looked at my parents and said, 'I have to go,' " Karrington said. "I ran straight to my office across campus and called every number I had. It ended up being fine because we actually won that game and nobody remembered how angry they were."

She's also had her share of of victories. Her favorite was a trip to LSU two years ago when the team was forced to fly commercial and bad weather delayed the flight. The team's only options were to be re-routed to Atlanta and sleep in the airport, but Karrington went to work.

"Over the span of two hours, I ended up canceling all of our commercial flights, getting full refunds for everything, and then booking a charter flight. I pace when I work and I ended up pacing two miles throughout the airport, and I was fielding so many phone calls," True said. "It was a crazy two hours but when we got there, our schedule was only off by like 30 minutes. It ended up being my marquee moment.

"I jokingly tell everyone that I work with that I'm really glad I was raised by a firefighter because I'm constantly putting out fires," she said with a laugh.

True had initially thought about staying with UK for the next few years but with a recent change in coaching staffs, those plans are up in air. She feels like she is ready to move onto the next step, whether that's at another college or in the pro ranks, but her ultimate goal is to run a team in the English Premier League.

"I'm at an interesting crossroads. It's an exciting time in my life to not have my next step set in stone, and so I'm excited to see what opportunities I'm presented with," she said. "It'll be interesting to see how that kind of fits in the grander scale outside of collegiate athletics. You know, I may decide to stay in college or one day, if I wake up and feel kind of froggy, do something different. You never know. There may be opportunities there or I may be able to get a different phone call and go wherever."

Regardless of where she ends up, it's a good bet that Karrington will be a success. Her high school history teacher, Shannon Barger, likes to say — only half-jokingly — that she will end up in the U.S. Senate some day.

"Ideally, I like where I'm at. I don't ever want to coach. I've never played and I know nothing about coaching," she said. "I love being in the back of the house running things and I know that if I do my job correctly, that I'm putting everyone in the best opportunity to perform and I like that aspect of it. I like to be behind the scenes and get to see a front row view that not anyone else gets to see. I get to see them at practice every day and I get to watch them on the field from about two feet from from the playing. It's a good seat, and I want to say there."

A World Series short on drama so far shifts scene to Atlanta

BY BEN WALKER
AP BASEBALL WRITER

ATLANTA — His day on the diamond almost done, Jose Altuve walked over to a clutch of Astros fans clustered behind the netting down the right field line at Minute Maid Park.

For five minutes, he autographed World Series programs, No. 27 jerseys and other items, many of them for kids. A young girl got a ball with Altuve's signature and joyfully turned to her mother.

"I'm about to cry," the mom said Wednesday night.

Altuve's team liked the signs they saw from him earlier in the evening, too.

In a Fall Classic devoid of drama so far, the big-swinging leadoff man is among the few stars to deliver any huge hits.

Bouncing back from the first three-strikeout game of his postseason career, plus a prolonged slump in the AL Championship Series, Altuve homered and doubled as Houston beat the Atlanta Braves 7-2, tying the matchup at 1-all.

But teammates Carlos Correa, Alex Bregman and AL Championship Series MVP Yordan Alvarez have been mostly silent. Freddie Freeman, Austin Riley and NLCS MVP Eddie Rosario haven't done much damage for the Braves, either.

"You can be 0 for 20, but what about if you get the big hit? So that's what playoffs is about," Altuve said. "I don't care if I went 0 for 5 last night."

As Astros manager Dusty Baker said: "My dad used to tell me it's OK to get down, just don't stay down. So he didn't stay down."

After a rainy day off, they'll play Game 3 Friday night at Truist Park, provided the weather is OK. Luis Garcia is set to pitch for the Astros against Ian Anderson. Both of them threw well in the games their teams won to clinch these spots.

It will be the first World Series pairing of rookie starters since the 2006 opener.

That night, Anthony Reyes led St. Louis over Detroit and its newcomer, Justin Verlander. This season, Verlander was on Houston's injured list while recovering from Tommy John surgery.

Astros reserve Marwin Gonzalez is the only player who has batted against the other team's starter.

"Hank Aaron used to say, if you've never faced a pitcher, you initiate him right away and then kind of kill his spirits," Baker said. "So hopefully, we can initiate him."

Bengals' big-play Chase presents daunting task for 1-5 Jets

BY DENNIS WASZAK JR.
AP PRO FOOTBALL WRITER

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Ja'Marr Chase is catching passes at a record pace and leaving defensive backs frustrated and embarrassed along the way.

The Cincinnati Bengals rookie wide receiver has 754 yards receiving, the most by a player through his first seven NFL games. Chase, the fifth overall pick in the NFL draft in April, has 35 catches and leads the league with six receptions of at least 40 yards.

"He's kind of been this good from the jump," said quarterback Joe Burrow, who won a national championship at LSU with Chase in January 2020. "He has more games in the offense and more reps accumulated. Other than that, he's just getting better and better."

Chase sliced through Baltimore's defense last week, catching eight passes for 201 yards and a touchdown in Cincinnati's 41-17 rout that put the Bengals (5-2) in a tie with the Ravens atop the AFC North.

Next up is the struggling Jets (1-5) who have struggled against the pass — they rank 25th — and could be in for a long day at MetLife Stadium trying to keep pace with Chase.

"Obviously, he's one of the best deep threats," rookie cornerback Brandin Echols said. "As a team, we just want to control the big shots."

Well, good luck with that.

Chase, selected the AFC's offensive player of the week, is tied for second in the NFL with 13 receptions of at least 20 yards. He has turned an already solid offense into one of the most exciting in the league, teaming with wide receivers Tyler Boyd and Tee Higgins, running back Joe Mixon and tight end C.J. Uzomah to create matchup nightmares for opposing defenses.

"This receiving corps, without question, is very, very talented," Jets coach Robert Saleh said. "It's their third year in the system and Ja'Marr has really unlocked the entire group — the tight end, the running back, Boyd, Higgins. It's talented. And they're playing very, very fast."

Hanover women's soccer suffers 1st loss, earns No. 2 seed

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Hanover women's soccer suffered its first loss of the season on Wednesday, 1-0 at home to Mount St. Joseph, and with it the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference regular-season championship.

The Panthers, who had allowed just six goals all season coming into the match, gave up a score to Mount's McKenzie Schneeman in the 32nd minute for a 1-0 lead.

As it turned out, that's the only score the Lions (11-7-1, 8-0-1 HCAC) would need. Despite being out-shot 17-3 overall — and 7-1 on goal — Mount was able to make that goal hold up for the 1-0 win that claimed the HCAC crown.

David Campbell

The loss drops Hanover's overall record to 12-1-3 on the season and the Panthers end their HCAC regular season at 7-1-1 record. As the No. 2 seed in the HCAC Tournament, the Panthers will host either Rose-Hulman or Franklin on campus at 11 a.m. on Wednesday for the HCAC semifinals. The championship will be on Saturday at the highest-remaining seed.

HANOVER MEN MAUL MOUNT ST. JOSEPH

Hanover men's soccer cruised past Mount St. Joseph 5-0 on Wednesday to claim the No. 2 seed for the upcoming HCAC Tournament.

Josh Hughes scored the Panthers' first three goals of the match, in the 4th, 18th and 46th minutes, to give Hanover a commanding 3-0 lead. Joel Yann added a goal in the 82nd minute and Mason Brown scored in the 90th to complete the rout.

Keegan Marx and Fernando Martin had assists for Hanover, which held a 29-9 advantage in shots, including 11-2 on goal. Goalies Luciano Salemi and Yoann Kinanga each had one save for the Panthers.

Hanover, now 12-4-1 overall, closed out the HCAC regular season with an 8-1 record in league play to trail only 9-0 Rose-Hulman due to a 1-0 loss to the Engineers on Oct. 20. As the No. 2 seed, the Panthers will host the winner between Anderson and Bluffton in the tournament semifinals Wednesday at 2 p.m. on campus. The championship will be on Saturday at the highest remaining seed.

VOLLEYBALL SWEEPS FRANKLIN

Hanover volleyball allowed just a total of 44 points in a three-set win over Franklin in the annual Golden Ball game at home on Wednesday.

The Panthers swept past their rivals 25-17, 25-17 and 25-10.

Adrianne Vance had 12 kills to lead Hanover, Casey Dunn had 19 digs, Kelsey Ketcham had 32 assists and Maura Dankoski had two blocks.

Hanover, now 15-9 overall and 6-2 in the HCAC, closes out the regular season at Rose-Hulman on Saturday then plays in the HCAC Tournament next week. The Panthers are currently tied with Transylvania for third in the standings, but both are just one game behind Earlham and Mount St. Joseph.

Henry, Taylor fuel 2nd round of Titans-Colts matchup

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Derrick Henry is the NFL's two-time defending rushing champ.

On Sunday, the league's top two rushers will showcase their styles in Round 2 of a classic matchup between AFC South contenders Tennessee and Indianapolis.

"He's a beast. You see it, he's really raising the level, the standard for running backs," Taylor said. "You need to be a dominant presence on the ground so all of us backs look at him (Henry) and try to figure out how can I become a dominant presence on the ground each and every single week?"

Taylor has found some of those answers as he heads into Week 8 ranked second in the league behind Henry. And the Colts need Taylor to produce again in Sunday's high-stakes matchup.

Indy has won three of four since losing to the Titans in late September and can move within one game of the division lead with a win. Tennessee has won five of six and would take command of the title chase by sweeping the Colts.

Naturally, the two coaches with run-first philosophies will ask their workhorse backs to do more heavy lifting.

The powerful 6-foot-3, 247-pound Heisman Trophy-winning Henry is more than capable of succeeding.

He's 131 yards away from a fourth straight 1,000-yard season and with 10 games left, Henry is on pace to become the league's first back-to-back 2,000-yard runner.

Indy's defense, meanwhile, has allowed the second-fewest 100-yard rushers since 2018, five, with Henry doing it four times. So the defensive challenge is clear.

"You know what you're going to get with Derrick Henry," 2020 All-Pro defensive tackle DeForest Buckner said. "You know it's going to be a fistfight for all 60 minutes. You have to be mentally and physically prepared for it."

He had seven carries for 12 yards in last year's first contest, sat out the rematch after going on the reserve/COVID-19 list and had 10 carries for 64 yards behind a banged-up offensive line last month.

Since then, the second-year back has run 63 times for 408 yards, with three 100-yard games and scored six touchdowns. He's producing 5.5 yards per carry and now, he'll take 579 yards, into this game.

Yes, Henry has noticed the competition is getting tighter between himself and his friend — even if he still holds the upper hand.

"He's been running the ball very physical," Henry said. "He's got speed, gets north and south, runs hard and (Nyheim) Hines. They're definitely a great tandem and they've been playing good football."

PROTECTING TANNEHILL

Tennessee quarterback Ryan Tannehill was sacked a league-high 20 times through this season's first five games.

But the Titans have only allowed one sack in the past two weeks and have scored on 11 of 13 drives with the exceptions coming on kneel-downs at the end of each half against Buffalo. Tannehill has a simple explanation.

"We are playing better football," Tannehill said. "As the season goes on, you look at lessons learned. Being efficient, getting the ball out, not being in long-yardage situations and trying to help your offensive line out."

THROWBACK WENTZ

Colts quarterback Carson Wentz is starting to look more like the player from his first two NFL seasons than last season. He's completed 64.4% of his throws for 1,695 yards with 11 TDs and one interception — most of it despite playing on two sprained ankles.

On Sunday, Wentz can even become the first Colts quarterback to throw multiple TD passes with no interceptions in five consecutive games and this time his mobility won't be limited against the Titans.

"There were some plays we made in that (first) game from the pocket and plays that I definitely want back," he said. "There were a handful of times I was like, 'Yeah, I'm stuck in mud out there.' Definitely in a much better place."

TANDEM EFFORT

The Titans weren't at full strength in September, either. Receiver A.J. Brown, a Pro Bowler in 2020, left with an injured hamstring after only eight snaps and seven-time Pro Bowl receiver Julio Jones was limited to 34 plays with a hamstring injury that kept him out of the next two games.

Brown had his best game of the season last week with eight receptions for 133 yards and one TD after dealing with food poisoning all week. Jones caught two passes for 38 yards against Kansas City.

"They are huge playmakers for us," Tannehill said. "Hopefully, we can get them both out there and they'll play big for us. They have made huge plays for us at different times, both of them throughout the season."

No. 12 Kentucky seeks rebound off bye at Mississippi State

BY GARY B. GRAVES
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kentucky coach Mark Stoops wanted the No. 12 Wildcats to keep their edge during the week off and they'll need against high-flying Mississippi State.

Kentucky (6-1, 4-1 Southeastern Conference) needed a recharge after falling 30-13 at top-ranked Georgia nearly two weeks ago. After a successful but grueling first half highlighted by SEC wins over Florida and LSU, the Wildcats now seek to rebound Saturday night notch their first win in Starkville, Mississippi, since 2008.

"We continue to worry about ourselves and continue to try to elevate our game and play at a higher level," Stoops said this week.

The Wildcats began 6-0 for the first time since 1950 before a rude awakening physically against Georgia. Stoops used the bye to reinforce what worked up to that point and reclaim good habits.

"There really wasn't a challenge, which was a good thing for our team," Stoops added about the focus. "We definitely talked about it and wanted them to understand that we were not going to let (a letdown) happen. We're not going to take our foot off the gas."

Neither will Mississippi State (4-3, 2-2).

The Bulldogs regrouped from a 49-9 beatdown by then-No. 5 Alabama by trouncing last-place Vanderbilt 45-6 last week in Nashville. Their pass-happy Air Raid scheme reclaimed its offensive groove by totaling 461 yards through the air alone while surpassing 500 yards for the second time under second-year coach Mike Leach.

SEC passing leader Will Rogers completed 41 of 57 passes for 384 yards and four touchdowns in the rout. The sophomore also maintained his 70% completion rate and continued to demonstrate how far he has come since Kentucky intercepted him twice among six pickoffs in last year's 24-2 loss in Lexington.

Leach expects Kentucky to be different as well, especially with an extra week to prepare.

"This is a really solid team," the coach said. "They're going to play hard. They've had some close ones that they've gotten out of. That's the biggest thing. They are guys that play hard and play together."

SPREADING THE WEALTH

MSU quarterback Will Rogers has thrown for 2,546 yards and 18 touchdowns against seven interceptions. Last week showed how many options the Air Raid offense has as five receivers each caught five passes while 13 had at least one reception from either Rogers and backup QB Chance Lovertich. That group of five included SEC receiving leader Makai Polk (8.3 receptions per game, 552 yards).

"It is important that we have good distribution," Leach said. "We had good distribution where you want all the skilled positions to contribute to the offensive effort."

BY NOAH TRISTER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Indiana's football season is not going as the Hoosiers had planned.

They were ranked 17th in the preseason Top 25, and now, with October winding down, they still haven't won a Big Ten game. The quarterback position — and not just the health of Michael Penix Jr. — remains a major issue heading into Saturday's matchup at Maryland.

There's no indication Penix will return after missing two games with an injured throwing shoulder. His replacement, Jack Tuttle, injured his right foot on Indiana's first possession last weekend against Ohio State.

Both are considered week to week.

That leaves Donaven McCulley, a true freshman who was supposed to redshirt, and walk-on Grant Gremel next on the depth chart.

With the top three teams in the Big Ten East ranked in the top eight nationally, games like this among the bottom teams in the division take on added importance as teams scramble to reach the six-win mark that assures bowl eligibility.

Part of the reason Indiana started the season ranked was because the Hoosiers had a successful 2020 campaign that resulted in an Outback Bowl appearance. Indiana beat Maryland 27-11 in late November.

"Just like last year, they do a lot of blitzes, they change the fronts up," Terrapins quarterback Taulia Tagovailoa said. "They do different looks, disguises, to try to mess with the quarterback."

DEFENSIVE REBOUND

Indiana's defense had been pretty stout all season — until playing No. 5 Ohio State.

The Buckeyes scored 44 first-half points, more than the Hoosiers had allowed in 25 full games. The final tally, 54 points, was the most allowed by Indiana since a 55-52 loss to Rutgers on Oct. 17, 2015.

Allen challenged his team to focus on rebounding.

"There was a little hesitancy, I thought at some times, in our guys that I hadn't seen out of them before, definitely haven't seen it recently," Allen said. "We obviously made corrections and press on. That was the challenge to our guys. We did not play at our standard without question, but we can't let that last one affect the next one."

STOPPING THE RUN

Maryland's defense has been a weakness at times, and the Terps allowed 326 yards rushing in a 34-16 loss to Minnesota last weekend.

"In baseball, if you can't hit the curveball, guess what you're going to see? You're going to see the curveball," Locksley said. "I would expect with their quarterbacks being banged up, they're going to line up and say, 'Let's look and see what Minnesota did.' "

PEYTON'S PLACE

SIGN

"It's totally out of context for our neighborhood," Truax said, noting the sign is gaudy. "It's too Las Vegasy."

Kim Kennard, co-owner of Mad Love was in attendance, said while the design may not look like other signs in the area it is vintage in looks if one goes back and looks at historic photos of the Madison business district. She said the design was something she and her husband worked with Heitz to develop.

"We knew what we wanted it to look like but we weren't sure about the dimensions," she said.

Kennard said their goal behind Mad Love and the other ventures they have been involved in since moving to Madison are to promote the city's business and tourism.

"We put our house on the Christmas Tour and our business goal is to help the community," she said, noting they are big supporters of the city's kindness movement and the sign "was not meant to offend."

Board members asked Peach what recourse the city has in correcting the mistake. She noted that board attorney Devon Sharpe was consulted about the mistake and has advised that since the error was made by the city, the sign would probably have to be allowed to stay.

"If that stands then I should be allowed signs however I want," Carlson said. "But I'm not going to do that."

Josh Wilber, chairman of the HDBR, asked if there were other options to undo the mistake. Board members asked about the city offering to pay for a new sign that meets criteria and Wilber said that he and Peach could approach Mayor Bob Courtney to see if that is an option.

"I'm going to tell you that they sign was very expensive," Kennard said.

"Mistakes are made and I'm not going to condemn anyone for doing it because we all make mistakes," Wilber said. He agreed to take the issue under advisement but meanwhile tighten procedures so that a repeat does not happen.

Peach said she was already doing that with applications checked by the building inspector and department head using a check list and double checking all math.

Board Member Mike Prickett also suggested adding language to the application documentation requiring applicants to follow all city specifications so that sign companies are also responsible for meeting the requirements.

PETS OF THE WEEK

The Madison-Jefferson County Animal Shelter currently has a wide range of kittens (pictured) available for pre-adoption as well as a number of dogs and cats also available.

The kittens are under two months old, are $10 to pre-adopt due to the fact you will have to wait at least two months to bring them home. The shelter also has plenty of short hair and a few long hair kitties from calicos, to tigers, oranges and black and white — you name it, they've got it!

He is around 60 pounds but still thinks he's a lap dog. He's a little over two years old so he's anxious to find his fur-ever home with a loving family.

If you would like to meet Hector or the kittens, please call the shelter at 812-273-1788 to make an appointment. Animals that are neutered and vaccinated for rabies are listed on sisaveapet.com if you would like to see what other animals are available for adoption!

SHELTER

Board member Ray Denning, who also serves on Jefferson County Council, said Stultz-Weyer is someone the board viewed as having "a lot of energy, who can help the animals," adding that in Switzerland County she is commonly involved in handling 200 animals a month.

"She's used to a heavy workload, and being available 24/7," Denning said. "That's not her role here" as shelter director, but Stultz-Weyer "will be a good addition" to the animal shelter, he added.

Stultz-Weyer had served as Switzerland County's Animal Control Officer since being hired in March by the Switzerland County Commissioners. She currently lives in Switzerland County, but is in the process of moving to Jefferson County, which board members noted that her upcoming Jefferson County residency was an important component in their decision.

The decision to hire Stultz-Weyer by the Animal Shelter Advisory Board is only a recommendation, and the official decision and hiring must be done by the County Commissioners, which Commissioner Bobby Little indicated will come before the Commissioners at their next meeting at 5 p.m. on Thursday.

Efforts to improve conditions at the animal shelter have been moving forward since Little called a special meeting of the advisory board on Friday, Sept. 3, due to declining conditions and complaints related to the animal shelter. He said much progress has been made since then but there is more work to do.

"We're half way up the mountain" toward getting the animal shelter in the shape that it should be, he said.

The shelter continues to deal with an overabundance of cats with approximately 60 cats and/or kittens available for adoption. The board reported that all cats have been spayed and neutered, and have had vaccinations.

The board also approved the purchase of new outdoor kennels for dogs and the request was included in the county budget adopted recently. In addition, there has been work to improve the structure and improve communications with the public.

Bryan retires as Farmers Bank president, CEO

BY THE COURIER STAFF

After 31 years on the job, Neil S. Bryan has retired as president and chief executive officer of the Farmers Bank of Milton — a tenure that saw the little bank in downtown Milton grow in capital and expand with branches in five communities in Kentucky and Indiana.

Bryan joined the bank on Dec. 30, 1990, replacing L.D. Chapman upon Chapman's retirement. Bryan had previously served as president and CEO of the Bedford Loan & Deposit Bank in Bedford, Kentucky, where he began his banking career in September of 1973.

During Bryan's tenure with Farmers Bank, the institution experienced unprecedented growth, earnings and stability. When he took over the bank was a $40 million-dollar, one-location financial institution but on his retirement the bank had expanded into $306,000,000 bank operating out of five offices in two states. The bank was awarded and has maintained rating agency Bauer Financials' highest 5-Star designation for safety and soundness.

Bryan has also held a number of positions with the Kentucky Bankers Association including serving as president of Group V, chairman of the Retail Credit Committee and on the Board of Directors of the organization. In 2013, he became the only Trimble County banker to lead the Kentucky Bankers Association in its 130-year existence when he was elected chairman. He is currently a Trustee of the KBA Health Care Trust.

Bryan, of Bedford, will remain president and CEO of the Farmers Bank's holding company, Farmers Financial Corporation, and he will continue to serve on the board of directors of both the bank and the holding company while working a limited schedule handling the bank's investment portfolio.

Hertz, of Madison, Indiana, has been with Farmers Bank since July 2003. He is a former vice president at Heritage Community Bank in Madison and a branch manager for National City Bank in Indianapolis. He holds accounting and finance degrees from Indiana University-Southeast and attended graduate school at the University of Wisconsin in finance and financial management services.

Hanover Park plans holiday lights trail, events

BY BOB DEMREE

Hanover plans to light up possibly like never before when the Hanover Tinsel Twinkle Trail comes to Hanover Community Park this Christmas season.

Beginning on Thanksgiving and continuing through New Year's Day, the event will feature a trail of lights and holiday decorations throughout the park grounds.

"We're going to start small, and are hoping to grow," said Hanover Parks Director Scott Davidson. He related the event to a tinsel trail in Huntsville, Alabama, that displays Christmas trees decorated in downtown Huntsville's Big Spring Park but added the hope is to trademark the Hanover's event as the original tinsel trail in Indiana.

Tami Hagemier, one of the organizers of the event, said there will be a preview of the lights on the Hanover Tinsel Twinkle Trail on the night of the Madison vs. Southwestern Turkey Shootout on Nov. 24. Then it will go dark until the day after Thanksgiving when the lights are officially switched on Friday, Nov. 26, and the park remains lighted through New Year's Day.

On Friday and Saturday, Dec. 17-18, from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., there will be special activities at the park in conjunction the the Hanover Tinsel Twinkle Trail including a live nativity scene and carolers. According to Hagemier, a Santa celebration with Santa Claus and various holiday characters is also planned throughout the park. She said there will also be the Great Sugar Plum Bake-off — a competition for the best cookies, candy and decorated cookies.

A Hanover Christmas Craft Show is planned from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 4, at the Community Building, but dependent on the number of vendors, they may also have booths at the Southwestern Elementary School cafeteria.

In other business at Tuesday's Hanover Park Committee meeting:

- Hanover continues to await a decision from the Indiana Department of Natural Resources on a Land and Water Conservation Fund federal grant application for improvements to the park. Don Server, who has been heading up the committee's efforts in the application process, has been working the DNR to ensure information is submitted correctly. Server anticipates an announcement in the spring on whether the application is approved or denied. If the grant is awarded to Hanover, funding should be received by next summer.
- Davidson said a new program has been established beginning Nov. 1 for the Hanover senior citizens in a partnership with the Boys and Girls Club of Jefferson County where seniors can sign up and become prime time members for $30, which provides access to programming at the Lide White facility in Madison, along with participating in senior trips.
- Lunches will now be available for all senior citizens age 60 and older in Jefferson County at the Community Building on Mondays and Wednesday in a partnership with the Boys and Girls Club, Lifetime Resources, Hanover College and the Hanover Parks and Recreation Department. Meals will be served at 11:30 a.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays, and must be eaten at the Community Building. Davidson said most of the meals will be followed by a program. He said the meal will be whatever is on the Hanover College menu that day. Participants must sign up the Friday before the following Monday and Wednesday for meals on those days. These new senior citizen meal dates are in addition to the Friday meals that have already been taking place each week at the Community Building.
- Davidson said he is recommending a new fee structure for renting space in the Community Building in which the cost would be $100 for two hours, and $25 for each additional hour. Currently, the cost is $150 for up to four hours. Under both scenarios the rate for four hours remains the same, but setting the base rate on two hours makes the facility less expensive and more available to groups that do not need four hours. The refundable $50 deposit and the $50 charge for the kitchen usage will remain the same.

Inflation Can Be A Terrible Retirement Partner

Layin' It on the Line

By Stephen Dybwad
Retirement Planning/
Wealth Management

"Warren Buffet once pointed out that when you do the math, it is obvious that inflation is far more destructive to wealth than any tax levied on us by the government."
Steve Dybwad

It probably hasn't escaped your notice that consumer prices have gone rogue in 2021. Prices for goods and services are surging at the fastest pace in over ten years, threatening to squeeze households and squelch a potential post-COVID economic recovery. Economists, bankers, and pundits insist that inflation rates reflect pandemic-induced trends and are only temporary. However, many retirees, pre-retirees, and investors are concerned that prices will keep going up, stalling economic growth and causing stocks to plummet. If you are a certain age, you might remember the double-digit inflation of the 1960s and 70s, which reached its' apex during the Jimmy Carter Administration. Like all inflation, the price hikes were due to several factors, including an oil crisis in the Middle East, excessive government spending, and a slow-acting Federal Reserve.

Unfortunately, it is impossible to know if our current rising prices are temporary or a sign of things to come. Yet, many economists believe that the diversified, globally integrated US economy is big enough and robust enough to avoid the hyperinflation found in countries such as Zimbabwe.

Still, if you are about to retire, you should maintain vigilance when it comes to inflation. Even if increased inflation lasts only a few years, it can wipe out a significant part of your retirement savings. An annual inflation rate of just 3% seems insignificant. However, at a 3% rate, if you currently have monthly expenses of $4,000, they will be $5,000 a month in just ten years. For this reason, it is critical for those within ten years of retirement to review their plans and adjust for worst-case scenario inflation levels.

Many people fail to realize just how significant the impact of inflation is on their savings. For example, if you own an asset that is bringing in 4% returns with no income tax, and the annual inflation rate is also 4%, that scenario is equivalent to a 100% tax in a time where inflation is at ZERO! If the inflation rate were to go to 5%, and your asset will still making only 4%, you would be paying a tax equivalent to 125%.

Bake inflation protection into your financial blueprint

Inflation is a stealth tax that, although it doesn't go entirely unnoticed, is not as in-your-face as government-levied taxes. Government tax increases, such as those on income or property, are more readily identified and felt. On the other hand, inflation is like bleeding to death from a thousand tiny pinpricks rather than one gaping wound. Inflation expresses itself as a few cents more for a loaf of bread, a five-cent price increase on coffee, and so forth. Inflation leaves you scratching your head, wondering how your paycheck could vanish so rapidly.

Retirees and those leaving the workforce must partner with their advisors to put some armor around their wealth in a few years. Your savings must be protected as much as possible, or you risk running out of money when you need it most. Your advisor or advisory team may recommend various strategies using things such as certain types of annuities, cash-flowing investments, or even precious metals or cyber currencies.

Depending on your goals and risk tolerance, alternate investment strategies can form a protective barrier against erosive elements, including inflation, sequence of returns risk, and other attacks on your wealth.

The bottom line is: Like an unwelcome house guest, it's bound to show up when you least expect it, and it will outstay its welcome nearly every time.

Don't forget to plan for inflation.

COVID-19

for the state's roughly 600,000 5- to 11-year-olds next week. Smaller shipments of the vaccine are expected in the following weeks, a process similar to earlier COVID vaccine rollouts, Weaver said.

The announcement came after an advisory committee with the US Food and Drug Administration endorsed the kid-size doses by a 17-0 vote. The FDA is expected to make a final ruling in the coming days and, if authorized, the move would make nearly the entire U.S. population eligible for a COVID shot. Only children ages 4 and younger would remain ineligible.

Nearly 7 million vaccine doses have been administered so far in Indiana, and about 57% of those eligible in the state are fully vaccinated, according to state data. Roughly 300,000 COVID booster shots have been administered throughout the state, Weaver said.

Gov. Eric Holcomb and the state's top health officials also encouraged Hoosiers to get their normal flu shots to prevent a "twindemic."

Although Indiana averages about 150 deaths from influenza yearly, the state recorded just seven flu deaths in 2020. Dr. Kristina Box, the state health commissioner, said that's attributable to COVID-19 closures, social-distancing and masking protocols put in place a year ago.

"But I think that we're following fewer mitigation measures now than we were last year," Box said. "So, I'm very worried about the numbers being up, and I really want to make sure we don't have an increased burden to our hospitals as we go forward."

Fifty-one% of Hoosiers — the most ever recorded — received flu vaccinations last year, Box added. She said the state is hoping to continue that trend in 2021, topping the normal yearly average of 37% to 50% of Hoosiers vaccinated.

On Friday, there were 1,940 new positive cases of COVID-19 in Indiana over the last day, bringing the state's overall total to 1,018,638. There were an additional 17 new COVID-19 deaths in the state, lifting the overall total to 16,134.

In Kentucky, favorable trends have continued in the fight against the virus, with declining COVID-19 hospitalizations, admissions to intensive care units and ventilator use. "There's a chance that in two to three weeks, we could be at a really good place," Beshear said. On Thursday, the state reported 1,711 new coronavirus cases and 33 more virus-related deaths, including the loss of a Kentuckian who was only 25 years old, Beshear said. The rate of Kentucky residents testing positive for the virus dropped to 5.17%.

In addition to the one new death, Carroll County reported 36 new cases of COVID-19 since Monday, increasing the overall total to 1,898. Carroll's positivity rate is 13.19%.

Trimble County reported 26 new cases of COVID-19 since Monday for an overall total of 1,231. Trimble's positivity rate is 4.17% while the county's COVID death toll remains at 17.

In Jefferson County, there have been 48 new cases of COVID-19 since Monday, bringing the overall total to 5,180. Jefferson County's positivity rate is 8.5% while deaths were unchanged at 97.

Switzerland County has had 12 new cases of COVID-19 since Monday, for a total of 1,365. Switzerland County's positivity rate is 4.7% and the death toll stands at 11.

Jefferson and Switzerland counties remain in the "Orange" metric for medium to high community spread while Trimble and Carroll counties remain in the "Red" metric for high spread.

The Trimble County Health Department, 138 Miller Lane, Bedford, will host a vaccination clinic for the COVID-19 Moderna Booster on Thursday, Nov. 4 from 10 a.m. to noon. To be eligible for the Moderna booster, individuals must be at least six months from their second dose of Moderna or Pfizer or two months after receiving Johnson & Johnson vaccine.

SHOOTOUT

A man came out of the front door of the home and told arriving officers where the other family members were located. Madison Police Department officers made contact with them, they moved to a door that had outside access and police kicked in the door, allowing a woman, man and three children to safely exit.

Roark refused officers' commands to exit the basement and threatened to kill a male subject along with unspecified Hispanic men. Roark said he believed the DEA and Mexican drug cartel were after him and told police he had been awake for three days. Toxicology results demonstrated that Roark had methamphetamine in his system at the time of the offense.

Roark fired his weapon multiple times with several rounds penetrating the first floor. After daybreak, he also fired at Trooper Livers. ISP troopers then returned fire and Roark surrendered shortly thereafter.

Roark was taken into custody and during his interview with police, admitted he knew there were people inside the home when he began shooting. He said he shot at Livers after seeing a human leg outside the basement window, but denied knowing he was shooting at a police officer.

"This was an extremely dangerous and volatile situation with many human lives in jeopardy," said Sutter. "I commend those inside the residence for remaining calm and following officers' instructions. All the law enforcement officers involved acted very professionally in a highly stressful situation."

Following the guilty verdict, Sutter expressed appreciation for the professionals who worked on the case and the witnesses who testified on behalf of the state. In particular, Sutter thanked and acknowledged lead Detective Brent Miller, Dr. Roy Miner, the ISP SWAT Team, ISP Crime Scene Investigator Martin Mead, Deputy Ryan Harrison with the Switzerland County Sheriff's Department, ISP hostage negotiators, the Jefferson County Sheriff's Department, the City of Madison Police Department and King's Daughters' Hospital Emergency personnel.

3 men facing drug charges

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Police in Madison and Hanover arrested two Jefferson County men and a Kentucky man in multiple drug charges in three unrelated cases this week.

A traffic stop on Tuesday by Hanover Police near the intersection of State Roads 56 and 62 at the top of Hanover Hill resulted in the arrest a Kentucky man on multiple felony drug charges.

Marcus R. Cole

Sean Eugene Cooksey

Logan Layne Edgington

Marcus R. Cole, 33, Morehead, Kentucky, was arrested and charged with Manufacturing/Dealing Methamphetamine, a Level 4 felony; Possession of Methamphetamine, Possession of a Syringe and Maintaining a Common Nuisance, all Level 6 felonies; and Leaving the Scene of a Crash-Property Damage, a Class B misdemeanor. He was lodged in the Jefferson County Jail without bond.

Hanover Police were looking for Cole when they observed his vehicle stuck after backing off the roadway. During the investigation, police determined Cole was attempting to avoid law enforcement when he got the vehicle stuck.

Elsewhere, Madison Police served a narcotic search warrant on a residence in the 600 block of Walnut Street Wednesday resulting in the seizure of methamphetamine and marijuana with the occupant, Sean Eugene Cooksey, 54, Madison, arrested on drug charges.

Cooksey faces preliminary charges of Possession of Methamphetamine, a Level 5 felony; Maintaining a Common Nuisance, a Level 6 felony; and Possession of Marijuana, a Class B misdemeanor. Additionally, because police observed Cooksey operating a motor vehicle prior to serving the search warrant, he was also charged with Operator Never Licensed, a Class C misdemeanor, and Operating Without Ever Obtaining a License-Second Offense, a Class C misdemeanor.

Cooksey was lodged in the Jefferson County Jail without bond.

On Tuesday, a traffic stop for speeding on Vaughn Drive in downtown Madison resulted in the arrest of a Hanover man on drug charges.

Logan Layne Edgington, 20, Hanover, was a passenger in a vehicle that Madison Police stopped for speeding at about 5 p.m. on Tuesday. While conducting that investigation, MPD Patrolman Jared Sweet discovered that Edgington was in possession of methamphetamine and drug paraphernalia.

Edgington was taken into custody without incident and charged with Possession of Methamphetamine, a Level 6 felony, and Possession of Paraphernalia, a Class C misdemeanor. He was lodged in the Jefferson County Jail on a $1,000 full cash bond.

The driver and another occupant in the vehicle were not charged.
